Copenhagen, July 8, N. S.

THIS Day died his Royal Highneſs Prince Charles, Brother to the King of Denmark: He was a Prince remarkable for a generous charitable Diſpoſition, was univerſally beloved here, and is very much lamented.

Hanover, July 18. N. S. Laſt Friday, the 15th. Inſtant, his Majeſty reviewed the three Regiments of Horſe, viz. Launay's, commonly called the Leib-Regiment, Hasberg's, and Shoulenbourg's or Walter's. Theſe three Regiments performed their Exerciſe both on Horſeback and on Foot, and in the ſame Manner as the Dragoons had done the Day before; and after they had paſſed by the King on Foot and in half Diviſions, they remounted and marched off before his Majeſty in Squadrons. The ſame Day Baron Stein, one of the Miniſters of the Duke of Wolfenbuttel, returned hither from Brunſwick, and with his Colleagues has ſince had ſeveral Conferences with the Lord Townſhend, and with his Majeſty's German Miniſters. On Saturday the 16th came on the Review of four Regiments of Foot, viz. that of Sommerfeld, Druchtleben, Schwaan, and Wurm, with which his Majeſty ſeemed perfectly well ſatisfied. In the Evening, Prince William and Prince George of Heſſe took their Leave of the King, and ſet out that Night on their Return to Caſſel. This Morning his Majeſty went to review four other Regiments of Foot, viz. Melville's, Finck's, Behr's, and Campen's; and to Morrow the Review will finiſh with the two Regiments of Quernheim and Zaſtrouw, and the two Battallions of Foot-Guards. The Lord Waldegrave, the King's Miniſter at the Court of Vienna, having obtained his Majeſty's Leave to make a Tour hither, is expected in two or three Days.

Paris, July 20. Forty two Captives lately redeemed by the Miſſionaries de la Mercy, have been preſented to their moſt Chriſtian Majeſties, and paſſed before them in Proceſſion at Verſailles. The Prince de Soubize has ſince received them in a Body at a great Entertainment which he made for them at his Houſe, and this Day they go in Proceſſion to the Church of St. Euſtache, as Yeſterday they went to the Church of St. Sulpice, and the Day before to Notre Dame; in which three Proceſſions they will have paſſed through the moſt frequented Streets of this City. Mademoiſelle de Beaujolois is indiſpoſed. The Duke de Coiſlen Biſhop of Metz is very ill. The Marchioneſs de Croiſſy, Daughter-in-law to M. de Torcy, is brought to Bed of a Son.

Hague, July 22. M. de Gallieres, Miniſter of this Republick at the Diet of Ratisbon, who had been here for ſome Weeks by Leave from the States, ſet out the 14th Inſtant to return to his Station, with new Inſtructions from their High Mightineſſes to ſupport the Proteſtants, who in the Empire are under Perſecution from ſome Roman Catholick Powers, as alſo to engage the Diet to ſupport the Inhabitants of Embden againſt the Attempts of the Prince of Eaſt-Frieſland. The Margrave of Baden Dourla, who arrived here on the 13th, was magnificently entertained at Dinner on the 15th by his Excellency the Earl of Cheſterfield. On the 16th, he went to Haerlem, where he has a Country Seat, deſigning to ſtay there till the Arrival of the Prince his Son, married to the Prince of Orange's Siſter, and then go to Utrecht to make a Viſit to the Prince of Orange. On the 20th died the Lady of Baron Dehn, Envoy Extraordinary from the Duke of Brunſwick-Wolfenbuttel, to whom ſhe left a conſiderable Sum of Money. Yeſterday Count Sinzendorff, the Emperour's Envoy here, diſpatch'd an Expreſs to Vienna, after having had the Day before a Conference with the States General upon the Affairs of Eaſt-Frieſland, and particularly on the Amneſty granted by the Emperour to the People of that Country. A great Fire happened at Dort on the 19th, which intirely conſumed the Store-Houſes belonging to the States, and ſeveral other Houſes near them.
